WEDNESDAY EVENING, AUGUST 6.

THE REAL DANGER.-The real danger of Cæsarism" comes from another source, which is illustrated by the result of the Republican for Cleaning your House will save the labor of Convention in Virginia. There the Administration selected its candidate for Governor, and then proceeded to nominate him. The Federal officeholders received their instructions, the machinery of the party was put into operation by agents from Washington, and the Convention had nothing more to do than to register the fiat that had gone forth from the national capital. The same thing has been done before, notably in the case of Governor Washburn, of Wisconsin, and the process is now being repeated in behalf of the infamous Ben Butler in Massachusetts. This is Cæsarism. Its effect is to deprive the States of governors, and to sub stitute agents of a centralized government, who will execute the wishes not of the people of their respective States, but of the Federal power. It is this danger that the people of the United States should be made to realize; in comparison with it, the third term scare is the merest chimera. - Chicago Times.

THE SALARY GRAB.—It is worth noting that the salary-grab resolution which threw the Virginia Republican State Convention into such hysterical excitement was introduced by a colored delegate. It was the mildest possible resolution, -simply "we disapprove" -but it was too strong meat for the loyal digestion; the colored brother had leave to withdraw, and availed himself of it in the interest of party harmony. Mr. Platt, the congre-sman, whose frank was so useful to General Grant's committee on campaign literature last year, told the Convention it had better mind its own business. He had voted for the so-called steal six times, and would do it over again under the same circumstances. - Springfield Republican.
